SENATE NOTES

Senator Baldwin introduced a bill in the senate yesterday providing a maximum penalty of $200 or six months imprisonment for violation of the game laws. At present the law provides a fine of $10 or not more than $50, with no jail alternative. Because of the light fine it is contended that the game birds of the island are being fast destroyed.

After being postponed three times, the meeting for the discussion of the two measures before the senate for the extension of the franchise of the Rapid Transit & Land Company will take place tomorrow evening. The hearing will be in the representatives' chamber of the capitol, being a larger room than the senate's quarters. Governor Frear, I. Tenney Peck and other prominent men are expected to appear at the meeting, and probably will take some part in it.

The new Pacific Mail folder as distributed by H. Hackfeld and Company is artistic, with letterpress and illustrations up to the minute. Honolulu and the Hawaiian islands secure a generous share of the space in the clever and interesting descriptions of the tour of the Pacific.

Castle & Cooke's shipping office is greatly beautified through the display of a handsome painting from the brush of Artist Coulter, the work of art being entitled "On a Lea Shore." A full rigged ship moored in rough water and near forbidding rocks is admirably depicted. "A Foggy Morning in San Francisco Bay" is a second pleasing work of art secured from the same artist and hung in the office at the local Matson Navigation agency.

power other than by steam upon any public street or thoroughfare within the Territory of Hawaii, except in crossing the same, shall not exceed the rate of twenty miles per hour.
That is all there is to the measure. The senators who were discussing it at recess agreed that it was a bill to bring about a speedy settlement of the franchise matter. As for the introduction, he impliedly admitted the deduction of the solons was correct.
"Before discussing it I wish to see it printed," he stated. "But I might say that it is likely to have a very direct bearing on the franchise trouble. I introduced it by request"—he smiled—"and at this time I am not in a position to disclose who the author is."

Senator Judd was the introducer of the second measure before the senate for the extension of the franchise, the one drafted by Governor Frear. He stated at that time that he offered it "by request."

Some lawmakers seem satisfied that the same hand which wrote the former one, also wrote the measure submitted today.

If it became a law, it was conjectured this morning, the company might be unable to keep up its running schedule, as it now makes considerably more speed than twenty miles an hour along certain stretches of road, it is said.

affiliated with the mainland association of similar bodies.

Mr. Carter asked if it would be advisable to call a joint meeting of all these societies.

Mrs. Lowrey thought it would. It would be a waste of effort for him to address each society separately.

After discussion it was decided to call a mass meeting of the women's societies at the assembly hall of the Library of Hawaii on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

A conference between the committee and a deputation of merchants following the general meeting. President O. C. Smith of the merchants' association, J. H. Soper, M. Brach, George B. Curtis and James D. Levenson were the merchants in attendance. Chairman George R. Carter, Secretary W. H. Babbitt, F. L. Waldron, Ed. Towse and E. A. Berndt constituted the committeemen present, others in attendance being A. L. C. Atkinson and George F. Henshall, headquarters secretary.
